

Story of Bidula's Patriotism:

At that time, the king of the Sind attacked the kingdom of Soubir. Sindraja the king of the Sind captured Souvira and Sanjaya lost the kingdom. But, Sanjaya was not trying at all to recover the lost kingdom. On the other hand, the queen Bidula could not bear the subservience. She said to her son Sanjaya, "It seems that you are not my son. My son cannot be such a coward. Remember, your father, the king of Soubir. What a mettle and courage he had! He cannot at all accept this subservience. Be brave. Defeat the enemy and recover the lost kingdom."

Sanjaya said, "What will you gain, mother, if I die in the war? What benefit is it to you even if you get hold of the whole world?" Bidula was inflamed to anger. She said, "Death for protection of the independence of the country is indeed the death of a hero. We are to die one day. Let you die if it is a war for independence or making the kingdom free from enemies. So either independence or death, make it a pledge and plunge into a war like a hero."

Sanjaya's delusion was removed with Bidula's words and he was inspired and fought. The king of Sindh was defeated and Sanjaya got back the lost kingdom. The kingdom of Soubira was trembled with the shouts of victory by the subjects. Sanjaya was congratulated.

And Bidula remained memorable with the glory of patriotism. It's really a wonder to think how much patriotism a mother had to advance her son to the edge of death. Bidula was such a patriot.

We will also be patriot like Bidula. We will love our country. We will work for the welfare, the progress and upholding the independence of our country.
